

The flood of Saturday caused over a hundred dollars worth of damage to the Lawrence township roads in the Mt. Joy section and as the road fund of the township is exhausted the supervisors are hard put to it to repair the damage done. The result is a condition no man could foresee or prevent and as those in charge of the roads are without funds to repair same it will be up to the people of the Mt. Joy section and Clearfield people using the roads in question to lend a hand toward remedying conditions. The supervisors will do everything possible to get the roads in shape, but they are in need of and entitled to community assistance. Let those using the roads consider this an invitation to help out in this matter and let all get busy at once.

LITTLE INCREASE IN COAL PRODUCTION

Little or no increase in the volume of coal production in the central Pennsylvania bituminous field is being shown this month. Up to and including Sept. 7, there have been 10,797 cars loaded in the district, as compared with 12,422 cars up to the same date in August. The latter, however, represents one more day's work, all mines having been closed on Labor day, last Monday.

Local operators state, however, that they are receiving more inquiries now than at any time since the depression set in and the outlook is good for a brisk trade during the fall months when the demand on the part of domestic consumers will increase.

There have been no new developments on the wage issue recently and matters will probably drift along as they have been until the present scale terminates at the end of March.

T. H. Watkins, chairman of the board of directors of the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers' association and president of the Pennsylvania Coal & Coke corporation, will be one of the speakers at the meeting of the American Mining congress, to be held in Chicago, Oct. 17 to 22. This will be one of the most important meetings of the congress ever held and the discussions are expected to touch upon the policies that will be adopted by the United Mine Workers of America at their convention at Cleveland, Sept. 20.

MILLIONS BEING SAVED BY NEW OIL SEPARATOR

New York, Sept. 12.—Millions of dollars can be saved annually by the use of a device similar to a cream separator in recovering petroleum that has become mixed with water in the wells, Dr. Sidney Born of Muskogee, Okla., told delegates to the petroleum section of the American Chemical Society's convention here.

Dr. Born said the machine, which is being used with success in oil fields of the Middle West, revolves at a speed of 17,000 revolutions a minute, breaking up the emulsions into clear oil and salt water which are then drained off through spouts.

Dr. Edgar F. Smith, president of the society, told the delegates that America's future is closely related to the progress of chemistry.

MINE AT NEW PHILADELPHIA RE-OPENS

New Philadelphia, Ohio, Sept. 12.—The Mullins coal mine of the Underhill Coal Company, of Cleveland, will resume loading and shipping of coal today, after being idle since April 1 for repairs, overhauling and equipment costing $15,000. One hundred men will return to work.

NET TOURNAMENT HALTED AGAIN BY THE RAIN

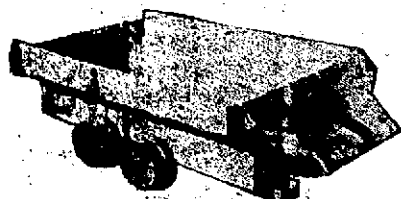

Van Valzah Wins Singles Double Event Will Be Played Off Saturday.

The rain jinx seems to pursue the tennis stars who are to take part in the Country Club Tennis tournament. After over a month of delay the singles were run off Saturday afternoon with Van Valzah coming out winner. Three sets were played off on Labor Day, and Van Valzah garnered two of them. Saturday he went after Wilson in a hurry and wound up the singles event by taking the third set he needed by a score of 7 to 9. It was a hard fought battle from the start, both playing a fast game.

Doubles Interrupted.

Van Valzah and Shillingford, paired up against Dr. Woolridge and W. Powell, had the edge on the doubles event when rain halted the proceedings. The first set ended 6-4 in their favor. The second set was 2-0 in their favor of their opponents when the rain began to fall in torrents and play was ordered postponed until next Saturday.

BOY ELECTROCUTED BY HIGH VOLT WIRE

DuBois, Pa., Sept. 12.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday afternoon at three thirty in the fields of West End, Punxsutawney, when Edwin Morris, a ten year old lad of West End, was electrocuted. Edwin was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morris of West End. Yesterday afternoon as he was taking a short cut through the fields came in contact with a live wire that had been blown down during the hard storms Saturday night.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR

Geimes pitched a four-hit game against the Cubs, Brooklyn, winning 5 to 0. Only 28 batters faced him.

Lewis hit a homer with two on bases and the Yankees beat the Tigers.

Gharity hit a homer at Chicago for Washington. Ellerbe, ahead of him, thought the ball had been caught and turned back to his position at shortstop. Gharity scored ahead of him and was called out.

The Giants made a triple play against the Cards. Kelly caught a line drive, touched first and threw to Bancroft, who caught Hornsby off second.

WOMAN KILLED IN SHOOTING AFFRAY BETWEEN ITALIANS

Pittsburg, Sept. 12.—One woman was shot and killed in a shooting affray between two Italians in Bedford avenue last night. Mrs. Joseph Badwa, a Syrian, of Thirty-third street, was sitting on the steps of a home she was visiting when she was struck by bullets. She died en route to the Mercy hospital.

The two Italians were seen getting into an argument when suddenly the shooting started. One man was shot in the leg. By that time a crowd had collected. A policeman, living near, responded and after a chase caught the man shot in the leg. The other Italian made his escape.

KILLED SALESMAN TO GET MACHINE

Chicago, Sept. 12.—To get possession of a $5,400 automobile, Harvey W. Church, 23 years old, confessed Sunday afternoon to two of the most brutal murders in the history of Chicago.

Church confessed when Bernard J. Daugherty, salesman of the Packard Motor Company, called to deliver a car he had purchased. He forced him into the cellar at the point of a revolver, handcuffed him, slashed his throat and then completed the murder with a baseball bat, and that when Daugherty's companion, Carl J. Ausmus, forced his way into the house to investigate Daugherty's delay, he killed him in the same manner.

Daugherty was formerly a resident of DuBois.

Installed in a DAY

—and SAVES YOU OVER 1/2 ON YOUR FUEL BILLS

You can revolutionize the HEATING SYSTEM of your house in ONE DAY.

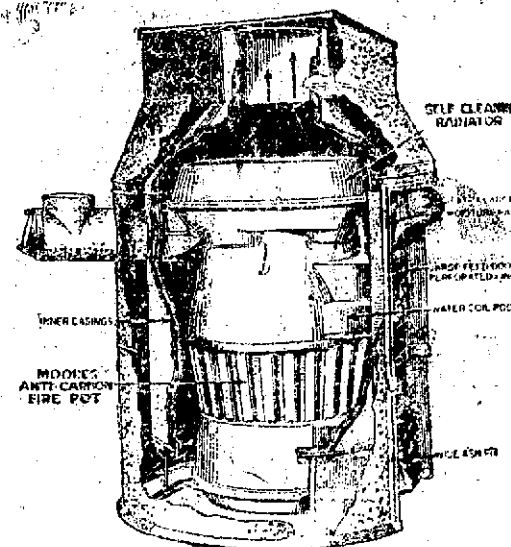

No mussing up of your living quarters, either! By installing a MOORE'S Pipeless Furnace in your basement and cutting ONE opening in the floor above it, your whole house is heated by JUST ONE FIRE. And you get better heat with less labor and over one-third less fuel.

MOORE'S Pipeless Furnace is the most economical system of house heating it is possible to secure. The famous MOORE'S Anti-Carbon Fire-Pot (shown at the left) burns all the gas, smoke and soot, thereby SAVING YOU 33 cents on every dollar's worth of fuel you use. It will burn slack coal just as well as the best grades of lump.

Moore's Pipeless Furnace

MOORE'S SELF-CLEANING RADIATOR automatically drops the dust back into the fire-pot, so that the heating surfaces are always clean and can, for this reason, deliver all of the heat in the fuel.

The LARGE MOISTURE PAN located in the most effective place keeps the indoor atmosphere properly moistened for the requirements of good health, which only a warm air system can do. It insures a healthful, warm atmosphere in every room of the house and even in the open halls.

MOORE'S Pipeless Furnace has ALL of the most approved features—many of which are exclusive with it. The GRATE is of the most approved design of revolving bars, operating in pairs by means of a detachable crank. It is very easy to operate and most efficient in cleaning the fire of all accumulated ashes. The ASH-PIT is wide and of large capacity, so that checking of draft is almost impossible. In fact, the MOORE'S Pipeless Furnace is the Simplest System of Heating known.

WOMEN SHOULD TELL

THE TRUTH
"Tell the truth and avoid apoplexy."

This advice was given to women of the world free by Dr. H. S. Langford, one of the most noted English psychologists, at the annual session of the British Association at Edinburgh.

Langford, who has studied the causes of high blood pressure for twenty years, declared:

"Exhaustive tests show that the blood pressure rises when a person tells a lie. This peculiarity is more marked among women than men."

According to Langford, this explains to a large extent woman's habit of blushing when cornered.

THE LAND OF THE

FREE—ALMOST

One hundred and sixty men, women and children had their fondest dreams shattered Friday last when, after being on the very threshold of America and a new life, they were deported from Ellis Island. Their offense consisted of arriving here at the wrong time. They were in excess of the legal quotas of immigrants from their respective countries for August and September.

Many of the exhausted savings of a life time to get here. They believed that once in America money would come easy. The women, all hope gone, wept in despair as they were taken from their quarters. Some, fainting, were assisted by matrons. All were turned over to the various steamship companies on whose vessels they came over.

NOW SOME OLD MAIDS

MAY CATCH A MAN

From time immemorial old maids have been said to look under their beds every night before retiring in the hope or fear of finding a man hiding there. Science has at last come to the rescue of these unsuccessful and unattached old girls by at last producing what is termed the burglar proof bed. These beds are now on the market. They are equipped with an electric lighting device which allows the pressing of a button to diffuse the floor under the bed with light any time you suspect a burglar to be reclining underneath your virtuous couch. The new device is also recommended to old bachelors as an aid to collar button pursuing.

CLAIMS TO HAVE

PHOTOGRAPHED SPIRITS

Proof that spirits have bodies possessing exactly the same form as our own has been furnished by Dr. Geley, a famous and competent investigator, in an article published in the Revue Metaphysique, of Paris.

This announcement has caused great excitement in the bona-fide spiritualist circles of France and England.

The Revue published a series of photographs of the hands and feet of spirits "materialized" in moulds of paraffin wax. The experiments were conducted under conditions which made fraud and trickery impossible.

PRESIDENT OF STATE COLLEGE
URGES UNITY AMONG GRANGERS

Center Hill, Pa., Sept. 12.—The spirit of co-operation and unity of effort for Pennsylvania farmers in their marketing and buying was urged upon the great annual gathering of Central Pennsylvania Grangers at the big day of the camp and exhibition last Tuesday by Dr. John M. Thomas, president of the Pennsylvania State College. The attendance was the largest of the week, hundreds of farmers and their families hearing the Penn State head and John A. McSparran, master of the State Grange.

"The biggest problem for the Pennsylvania farmer is the necessity for united effort working for the betterment of his general welfare," said President Thomas. "The farming interest is the largest single industry in the State and to compete with urban pursuits, life, work and the financial return from the farm must be placed on a similar scale."

"The Pennsylvania State College agricultural school, its extension and experiment station work have come to be the greatest friend of the farmer. They aim to make farm life agreeable and profitable, and the extension division alone, with its 62 county agents and 30 field specialists, has been largely instrumental in raising the state standing in agricultural production from thirteenth to seventh and its acre value to second place."

"The college is doing all it can to help the farmer. The response has been truly wonderful and the next 10 years will see a marked change for even a better record when you come to use standard grades and co-operative marketing methods to compete with other States where these steps have already been taken."

CROP ESTIMATES

An improvement in the corn, buckwheat, and tobacco crop, and a falling off in oats, spring wheat, barley, and potatoes are the outstanding features of the report on Pennsylvania crops issued today by G. L. Morgan, Agricultural Statistician, Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates.

WESTERN FARMS OPENED TO WORLD WAR VETERANS

Washington, Sept. 10.—(United Press).—Two hundred and twenty-two farms today were opened to home entry by veterans of the world war in the North Platte region of Wyoming by the reclamation service of the department of interior.

On September 16, another opening will be made of 57 farms in the Shoshone district of the same state. These farms are particularly adapted to dairying, which, according to the department's statistics, is rapidly coming to the front as one of the county's foremost industries.

A decade ago this land was a part of a vast range occupied by nomadic cattle. Through irrigation it has recently been transformed into one of the most fertile spots in Wyoming. Two colonies of disabled ex-soldiers have been formed for the purpose of studying agriculture with the help of the federal board of vocational education.

Over 150 "recruit" farmers are in training at Ontario, California, and at Davis, California, there are 100 more trainees. Universities at cities where these colonies are located are co-operating during the school term and in the summer practical work on ranches is afforded.

During the training period and for the first two years of farm ownership the disabled ex-soldiers are paid from $100 to $170 per month.

NEWS OF
CURWENSVILLE

The heavy thunder and sharp lightning storm which passed over this section of territory Saturday afternoon did great damage to the hill roads leading into town. In some sections a strong wind accompanied the lightning, thunder and rain and large trees were torn up by the roots and cast across the roadway. Corn and buckwheat fields suffered considerable damage. It was the most destructive storm that has visited this section for a number of years.

A special religious service was held in South Side A. M. E. church on Sunday. A special program has been prepared for afternoon and evening, and consisting of rendition of negro melodies and old plantation songs, also negro talent of higher caliber. A nice congregation was in attendance and enjoyed the musical end of the services highly.

Saturday was Red Men's picnic and Jubilee day, locally. A number of Ilihi Tribe, representing Curwensville in the confederation of Western Indiana visited their brethren and expected to remain on the woods and hunting grounds for the big dance and place sometime during the evening, but on account of an insistent heavy rain storm, was postponed. A ball game in which the American Legion team of this place was to have been the attraction was also postponed after two innings had been finished. The score at that time being 2-2.

Mr. Charles Harris, who for a number of years had been employed at the P. H. & Tannery, but for ten years past has been a resident of Bendersville, Pa., circulated around and among old time friends in Curwensville and vicinity last week. He visited here to locate at or near Harrisburg.

Mrs. Margaret S. Fletcher is visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. Joseph Dale at the farm home north of Ridge avenue. She is now acting as a nurse to Mrs. William Dale, who has been an invalid for some months past.

Mrs. Dwight Bell, a resident of Salt Lake City, and a sister of John and Curtis Porter, of Pike township, is visiting in this neighborhood. She will also visit with a sister, Mrs. Hoffman, at Glen Campbell, before her return to Utah.

Messrs. Frank and William Wilson of the South Side, are now at Endicott, N. Y. where they will be employed in one of the tanneries in that city for several months.

Mrs. Anderson Mehoffie, Sr., a former resident of Curwensville, but who since her husband's death has been making her home with a daughter Mrs. C. W. McDonald at Springboro, Pa., is at present visiting her two daughters here, Mrs. Benj. Moore and Mrs. Harry Leathers.

Miss Helen Strauss is at present taking a commercial business course at the DuoBis Business College.

THAT BRADFORD TOWNSHIP SCHOOL STORY

Some time since The Progress printed a news story concerning the recent Bradford Township school election. We gathered the facts contained therein from the regular news channels about Clearfield and presented same as they appeared, without prejudice or feeling of any kind. Since the publication of the article we are informed that certain Woodland people want to make it appear that Tax Collector John G. Maines, of Bradford, was responsible for the publication or at least furnished the information therein contained. Such is not the case. Our reporter did talk to a member or two of the school board in seeking information on the subject but never had any conversation regarding same with John G. Maines, and he had nothing whatever to do with inspiring or even furnishing any information on the subject of the school election, and we print this statement to set Mr. Maines right in his township.

Official announcement of the selection will be made shortly, it was asserted.

How Much Does It Mean To You To Keep Your Wife Young?

Who hasn't met old women of 25, and young women of 40? It isn't years alone that age—any physician will tell you that undue expenditure of physical and mental energy will make the young old at 30.

It is such things as washing that soonest wear women out—handling of heavy clothes; stooping and lifting; working in cold water, and then hot; wet feet; trotting in and out from a warm, steamy room, to a cold outdoors.

More and more men are coming to appreciate that if for no other reason than that of health, it is inadvisable to permit this work by women.

And there's really no need for it—we can do the whole washing for the family, at a cost that's most moderate—less, in fact, than it costs to call in a laundress.

Call us and have us tell all about this more modern washway.

Three shining stars in the firmament of practical patriotism.

Three names that will be household words years after the rest of us have been forgotten.

Three boys, who in the crucible of war, proved themselves pure gold.

Three lives willingly laid on the altar of liberty for all peoples.

They lived—and died—for a principle—a purpose—far more ennobling than the ordinary work of life.

Three youths who are an honor to their country and to their parents.

Could any man wish for more when the final chapter of his life is written?

MORE THAN 6,000,000 HUNTERS

At the present time it is estimated that more than 6,000,000 people in the United States engage in hunting of one kind or another each year. The rapidly increasing drainage of marsh areas threatens the continuance of one of the most popular kinds of hunting, which will be perpetuated under the terms of the New-Anthony bill. With the growing congestion of population and the unrest which such massing produces, the need for maintaining and developing opportunities for out-of-door recreation places this bill in the front rank among legislative measures bearing on the public welfare. Throughout the United States a very large proportion of the men who spend a certain period each year in hunting, are undoubtedly among our most desirable citizens. Through their out-of-door recreations they develop their resourcefulness and maintain a physical and mental health which is of the utmost value in relation to their civic usefulness.

Under present conditions many of the most favorable marsh areas for wild fowl shooting have been purchased and are being held by wealthy sportsmen as hunting clubs, thus curtailing opportunities for wild-fowl hunting by the general public. The growing absorption of such areas by hunting clubs has created much criticism on the part of those who, through lack of means, are unable to enjoy such privileges. The establishment of public shooting grounds such as have just been made by Louisiana, will give the general public equally good shooting privileges with those had by the clubs, and should completely obviate any cause for the antagonistic feeling now existing on the part of the public.

EX-SERVICE MEN WANT REPRESENTATION

Representation in the American commission to the International disarmament congress November 11th, by at least one soldier of the world war, was asked of President Harding last week by the American Legion's national legislative committee at Washington. "There is no group in the nation that knows as much about war and has as vital an interest in the problem of war and peace as the ex-service men of the country," the Legion declared. The committee also urged Secretary Hoover to give the Legion representation on behalf of service men in the unemployment conference soon to be held.

PRINTING THE NEWS

(Rocky Mountain News, Denver.)

Much has been said lately concerning what a newspaper should and should not print. Before one can properly judge what a newspaper should print, the function and duty of the newspaper must first be clearly defined and understood.

A newspaper is different from any other publication, with a few exceptions, because it is a record, or should be a record of facts, whereas magazines and books are for the most part fiction or expressions of personal opinions. It is the function of a newspaper to print the news whether it is pleasant or unpleasant. A newspaper should be a complete and accurate history of current events. A newspaper is not responsible for the crimes and unpleasant events which occur and must be recorded, but it is responsible for the manner in which the events are described. It is not the function of a newspaper to exploit unduly or emphasize crime, scandal and divorce. Sensationalism is condemned by the conscientious publisher. Why is it, then, that stories of crime and immorality appear so frequently in reputable newspapers?

In the first place a newspaper is expected to print all the news, pleasant or otherwise. Right here the question as to what is news and what is not news must be considered. To be classified as news, an event must be out of the ordinary or unusual in some particular. For instance, that fifty million men arose this morning, ate breakfast and went to work is not news. But if one of the fifty million choked to death on a piece of toast, that is news, though it is unpleasant. Most persons are honest, hence dishonesty is unusual and therefore has news value. Crime is out of the ordinary, therefore, criminal activities appear on the front page, while the average man who never stole a penny is never mentioned. The large majority of people go through life without being associated with scandal or divorce proceedings, hence events of this character are news. It is easy to understand, therefore, that if a paper is to be what it purports to be, a complete record of current events, many of the stories printed will be about crime, and other unpleasant events. A newspaper should not be condemned for printing all the news, provided it prints only the truth and does not deliberately exploit the sensation.

It might be pointed out that in respect to printing stories of crime and immorality a newspaper should not be criticized as much as magazines and books. Whereas the paper merely records actual events for the purpose of informing the public, fiction writers describe imaginary crimes and immoral actions for the sole purpose of entertaining the public. Even great writers sometimes are offensive. There are passages in Shakespeare, Balzac, De Maupassant and other immortal authors that are indecent and vulgar.

Many seem to think that only news that is educational or uplifting should be printed. But would suppression of unpleasant stories be for the best interests of the community? Many criminals have been caught because of the publicity given their crimes through the columns of the press. Is it not in fact moral cowardice to avoid facts because they are unpleasant? Does not the public give events in the paper aid in correcting the mistake made? Is not sin more effectively combated by being exposed to the light of publicity than by being obscured and ignored in the darkness of silence?

To our mind the ideal newspaper is one which prints all the news but handles the unpleasant events in a way not to offend a proper sense of decency nor to exploit crime or immorality in a manner to exert a degrading influence.

Why Do You Keep Air Out of Preserves?

EVERY housewife knows that if she lets air into her preserved or canned fruit it will spoil. So when putting up fruit she fills the jars to the top, then sterilizes them to exclude every last tiny bubble of air and screws down the tops tightly with rubber rings to prevent air getting in.

Keep Air Out of Ice Cream

Prof. W. P. Heath, a scientist who has devoted his life to the sanitation of food products, has discovered a new process for making ice cream without using air.

Ice cream is made easy to eat by mixing with it, during the freezing period, a volume of air. If you examined ice cream through a microscope you would detect an infinity of tiny bubbles all through the texture. In ordinary ice cream these bubbles are full of common air, never perfectly pure.

Prof. Heath discovered a process for driving out the air in making ice cream and substituting a sterile, pure, germ-free atmosphere, one hundred times purer than air.

Carbonating Ice Cream for Purity

Heathmade carbonated ice cream is super-pure because there is no air in it. Carbonating improves the ice cream in other ways. The atmosphere used is the same used in carbonated water. It brings out the delicious richness of the ingredients used, adds a keen zest to the flavors and fruit juices used, and adds a smooth, creamy texture that you will note instantly on tasting it.

Best for the Little Ones

Give the kiddies all the Heathmade Carbonated Ice Cream they want. It is an ideal food. We make our ice cream from the best cream, richest in those mysterious vitamins, the growing and health elements of food. Carbonated ice cream will make their young bodies grow strong and ruddy with health. A dish of ice cream is equivalent to a meal.

Be sure you get our Heathmade Carbonated Ice Cream. If your dealer hasn't it he can get it. Insist that he get it for you.

GIRLS WHO WHISTLE AND IN TUNE.

Many managers have collected for their musical comedy production girls who are beautiful; most of them present girls who can dance, or sing or display clothes or lack of them—to advantage. That is not so unusual. But it has remained for John Cort to do all of these things—and to go a step further as well, in choosing the chorus for his musical comedy "Listen Lester" coming to the Driggs Theatre Wednesday.

Before we progress further, let us ask you a question. How many members of the female of the species do you know, Gentle Reader, who can successfully whistle, and not only whistle, but whistle a tune, with no false note or shrill jar that sounds like the letter-man on a sultry day and sends the shivers up and down your spinal column? Not many, we'll wager. Yet in "Listen Lester" there are some dozen or more such young ladies who purse their lips not only to look pretty and make the spectator mentally rhyme "kiss" with "bliss". They emit melodious sounds as well.

It all has to do with a certain song in the play, sung by dainty Virginia Watson accompanied by the chorus. It is called "Feather Your Nest" and it has to do with some little birdies, Mr. Harold Orob, the composer of the song, says that it was suggested to him by the Arbor Day festival in his schooldays, and particularly by a certain song he and his classmates used to sing and whistle in impersonation of a "Bob-White" calling to his mate. It is this idea that he has carried out, and while Miss Watson sings the words of the song, the girls supply a melodious background of sound, like the clear whistle of this "Bob-White."

The cynics might advance the argument that the girls merely purse their lips at the proper moments while someone right behind the 'drop' does the real whistling. But it is a positive fact that each girl on the stage is really whistling.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN COMING

The William H. Kibble "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear in Clearfield at the Driggs Theatre next Thursday.

No play ever written is better known in all parts of the United States to all classes of people than "Uncle Tom's Cabin" not even the plays of immortal Shakespeare, for the play of slavery has been given in every village and hamlet in this broad country, and it has been estimated that it is being played somewhere in this land of ours on every day in the year.

Mr. Kibble has given it a handsome and expensive mounting, and, as played by a Kibble company, the play leaves nothing to be desired, either in scenery or players. A large company of negroes are with the company and will be seen in plantation pastimes and festivities.

The role of "Uncle Tom" is in the hands of Gus Collins, the well-known minstrel star. The company is a large one numbering 30 people.

GRAND JURY

Jury room be renewed and linoleum be placed on the floor.

They recommended that the third floor of the Court House be remodeled into jury rooms.

They also insisted that all billboards in front of or alongside the Court House be removed at once.

They recommend that a wheel chair be purchased for an inmate of the County Home; that an electric fan be placed in the kitchen, that a Victrola or some other form of amusement be provided for the inmates and that new blankets be purchased for winter.

They also recommended that the pavement at the west end of the Second street bridge be repaired and placed to grade at once.

In the matter of the bridge on the road from New Millport to Kelletown over Bell Run in Knox township they recommend that the county pay one-third of the cost of erecting same, not to exceed $600 for the county's share.

They make the same recommendation regarding the erection of a bridge over the same Orr's Run, sometimes called Bell's Run on the road from Olanta to New Millport by Norris' mill.

PURSE SNATCHER
ACTIVE HERE ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Miss Grace Shaffer, a domestic employed in the home of L. C. Norris on South Second street, had a thrilling experience with a purse snatcher Saturday night last. The young lady had been down town shopping and started home around 9 o'clock. When she passed up Second street she noticed a young man dressed in a grey suit and grey cap following her. He caught up to her near Trinity church and she stopped near the corner as some people approached and allowed the fellow to go by. When he had crossed Walnut street, the girl turned down Walnut to River street and went up River street expecting to get into the Norris home by the rear entrance.

Grabs Purse.

Shortly after turning into Walnut street, the young man who had passed her on Second street suddenly confronted her and snatching her handbag containing about $8 started to run down Front street.

Miss Shaffer, pursued the footpad down as far as the Episcopal church in an effort to recover her property. The robber ran in behind the church and when the young woman reached the church he jumped out and struck at her and then continued down past the Junior High School building and disappeared up the alley nearby.

Not the First.

Several young women who have had occasion to be out on South Second and Front streets the past few weeks have been annoyed by would-be mashers following and accosting them and Mayor Chase should detail a plain clothes officer up in that section in the hope of picking up some of them.

Love of Country Natural.

There is a necessity that all men should love their country; he that professes the contrary may be delighted with his words, but his heart is still there.—Ben Jonson.

CLEARFIELD PAYS

The remains of Russell Flegal and Albert Fullington were interred in Hillcrest cemetery, while James Ball was buried in the Owens cemetery.

The Daily Lunch.

Breathless there a Jane with soul so pink who never to herself hath thought "I'll put my gum beneath the chair and when I've fed I'll find it there?" But when she's through her eating grunt and quite forgets the wad she placed beneath the chair, and thus defaces the furniture where, so I ween, the wad will never again be seen. But 'tis disgusting when you go to stick your own wad down below to find some other dedotted chumps have covered it with their own lumps.—Philadelphia Retail Ledger.

"If You Know How To Pray, Pray For Me Tonight—For Me And The Other Men In That Death Trap"

Then this despised "squaw man" was off to save from an Indian massacre the men who had shamefully jalled him for a common horse thief!

Only the girl knew his heart—she and the brother for whose sin he had buried himself in the West.

But when his great day came, his defamers found that his "black" soul was white and his "yellow" blood, spilled for them, was red—red!

"Told in the Hills" is a mighty epic of the West of the pioneers, of scout and gold hunter and roving Indian, of the West as it was in other times and never will be again.

The novel has thrilled countless thousands. Now Robert Warwick, with a brilliant supporting cast including Ann Little, Wanda Hawley, Tom Forman, Monte Blue, Eileen Percy, Hart Hoxie and Guy Oliver, has given the story life in a great screen masterpiece. Don't miss it!

Martin street, Turnpike avenue, and Nichols street, in the Third Ward were raging canals at the height of the storm, water two feet high sweeping down each street only to dash into Orr's Run. This run spread all over the landscape but such a volume of water reached the B. R. & P. culvert at Williams street as to flood the entire region thereabouts and cause very great destruction. The flood waters mounted several feet above the highest point ever before reached in this section and the house on either side of the run had as much as two feet of water in the first stories.

Forced To Move Horses.

Liveryman E. J. Walther, whose barn is below the railroad, was forced to remove his horses and movable property from about his premises and widespread destruction was wrought all along the course of the run thru to the river.

In the town proper general destruction was wrought by the storm waters and flood of debris carried down the hills onto the streets and into the sewers of the town. North Fourth street was a lake four to six feet deep from Market street down to Reed, while Cherry and Walnut streets between Third and Fourth streets also contained bodies of water from two to four feet deep. The adjoining cellars were filled with water and debris and a very great amount of damage was wrought throughout these sections.

Streets Closed Until Sunday.

Neither of the streets mentioned was open to travel until Sunday morning. At the corner of Market and Fourth street a bed of clay and stones a foot deep covered the brick street for a couple of hundred feet. The East End was also in the path of the deluge and very great damage was caused in every direction thruout the Fourth Ward. "Stinke" or more properly speaking, Sanitary Run, again went on the rampage. The new pool room in the basement of the Joe Pratt building on Daisy street, Phoenixville where she is in training after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Brown.

Mrs. Charles Campbell of Pleasantville is returning to her home after spending some time with relatives in Clearfield.

Miss Elizabeth Wiley arrived today from Marietta, Ohio, to visit Miss Catherine Mitchell of Walnut street.

Miss Elsie Roseberry is visiting friends in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Miss Ethel Trostle was called to Huntingdon Sunday on account of the death of her grandmother.

Mrs. Parry has returned from a visit to Cherry Tree and is visiting her daughter Mrs. Philip Reed of Old Town Road.

along the banks of this classic stream, was in the path of the flood and the pool room was filled from floor to ceiling with the first rush of waters. Mr. Pratt had just completed fitting up his pool room and his damage will amount to a couple of thousand dollars.

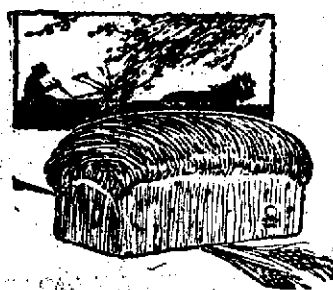

Factories Are Damaged.

The Banta Refrigerator Works had four feet of water in the boiler room and a lot of both rough and worked lumber was soaked and destroyed.

The water rushed into both No. 2 and No. 3 Harrison-Walker Brick Works and destroyed about 30,000 green brick on the floors in the two yards.

The New York Central railroad yards were converted into a lake, the tracks being covered by several feet of water. Train-running through the yards was out of the question for more than two hours, it taking an army of men under the direction of Foreman Froyd to get clogged sewers opened and the water out of the way.

In the business district of the town the flood also caused considerable damage. McCrory's five and ten cent store was flooded from the skylight and much merchandise destroyed. At famed flood were on their trail once more.

President of Council Pletcher was among the early arrivals and he took the scared populace in charge and comforted them in a five minute speech in his pajamas from the front porch. Jim told his excited hearers it was just one more those too-plentiful tendencies toward too much water in this country and he thought the situation could be handled by getting water enforcement officer J. B. Nevling, of the Water Co., on the ground. Nevling was soon at the scene accompanied by his trouble fixer Bill McKee.

They were "stumped" by the situation and were able to give no relief. The situation again became critical and tenderly disengaging the hands of frightened and sobbing little children—not his—but neighbors—the doctory guardian of his constituents' welfare went in to his telephone and summoned Street Commissioner Graham both Leitzinger's and Leonardson's stores' water invaded stock rooms in the basement and damaged a lot of goods before they could be removed.

The storm proper covered a very narrow strip over the sections mentioned above, and there was but very little rain at Hyde, on the south and on Lick Run hill on the north.
